Local Jaycees Hand Out Litter Bags To Motorists On Labor Day

On Labor Day nine Fulton Jaycees participated in a road-block setup by the Kentucky Highway Department for the purpose of making Kentucky a cleaner and greener land.

The Jaycees passed out litter bags along with pamphlets put out by the State, to the motorists traveling the local highways.

The pamphlets urged that motorists not throw litter on the highways and to slow down the traffic.

As the motorists were stopped they were also offered ice water.

The pamphlets also urged, on a community-wise basis that people keep their grass and weeds cut, and to keep trash cans covered.

The local Jaycees and Highway Patrolmen were taking part in a state-wide Jaycee program, in conjunction with the State Chamber of Commerce's Clean-Up Campaign over the State of Kentucky during the month of September. It is hoped to make "Litter Prevention" a permanent program.

The local Jaycees taking part in the two-hour long road-block Labor Day were Jimmy Young, president of the local organization, Bill Bennett, Joe Gambill, Dick Thompson, John R. Lawson, Jim Butts, Frank Welch, Bill Johnson and Billy Meacham.

The Highway Patrolmen taking part were Joe Hill, Duck Smith, Glen Charles, and Sgt. Barney Longtin.

Safecracker Wanted By FBI Caught In S. Fulton By Police Last Week

A safecracker was caught here by South Fulton police after throwing up a roadblock at the request of Tennessee Trooper Bill Meneses of Union City, it was learned here this week.

Under questioning by an FBI agent in Union City Thursday, Robert Livingston of Mississippi confessed strong-arming two safes and stealing about $1,300 in cash during the past two weeks.

Trooper Bill Meneses who arrested Livingston last Wednesday night as a suspicious person, said the questioning was conducted by FBI Agent George Hymer of Jackson.

The trooper said Livingston admitted breaking into the Coca-Cola Bottling Co. safe in Lexington, Tenn., Monday night of last week, making off with about $600. Earlier he took about $700 from a safe in the Mosley Hardware & Furniture store in Portageville, Mo., the trooper said.

Trooper Meneses said Livingston admitted spending $450 for a used car in St. Louis, Mo., Wednesday and later purchasing a new set of tires for the car. He had only about $50 in cash on his person when he was arrested, the trooper said.

Authorities from Lexington, Tenn., were in Union City about 1 Friday morning, Sheriff Chester Locke said, and took custody of the prisoner.

Livingston was arrested last Wednesday night at South Fulton where police had thrown up a roadblock at the request of Trooper Meneses. Employees at Tiny's Drive-In in Union City were suspicious of the man when he stopped there for coffee and notified city police who then called the trooper.

"Livingston was carrying a pistol and would have been dangerous," Trooper Meneses said. "The people at Tiny's should be commended for their alertness, along with both the Union City and South Fulton police."

Pattie Hixson Of Fulton Wins Grand Championship At State Fair

Rain Saturday failed to dampen the enthusiasm of youngsters in livestock competitions at the Kentucky State Fair.

Twelve-year-old Pattie Hixson of Fulton won the grand championship of the 4-H Club's Guernsey cattle show with Ella, her favorite cow.

It was the first visit to the fair for Pattie, who lives on a farm with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hixson.

And the youngster predicts she will win over her father when she competes against him Thursday in the Kentucky Guernsey 2-year-old futurity class.

In other activities, Rex Bennett, 20, of Kuttawa, walked off with the top sheep shearing honors. It took him just 5 1-2 minutes to trim the first of two lambs.

The Stull brothers of Sebree made it 14 consecutive championships as top hybrid corn producers while the blue ribbon for the best display of farm products went to Marvin Smith of Cane Valley. His family has won the event for several years running.

It was a big day for exhibits inside the Fairground Coliseum as visitors flocked to get out of the rain, which forced rescheduling of one event.

The Sunday School pageant was at 6:30 o'clock Sunday night in Freedom Hall with the featured speaker former Minnesota Gov. Harold Stassen, president of the American Sunday School Union.

Commercial Avenue To Be Closed While Modern Bridge Is Being Built

Commercial Avenue will be closed for the next two months, while the new bridge over Harris Fork Creek is constructed.

The work was begun Tuesday. The structure will be a three-barrel box bridge, made completely of reinforced concrete.

George Stephenson, a partner of the W. T. Cutchin and Associates firm of Dyersburg is superintendent of the job.

Mr. Stephenson said that the bridge will cost between $24,000 and $25,000.

There are only a few men working on the job at present, but later there will be between 12 and 14 workmen.

Tuesday afternoon workmen finished driving the piling on the northwest side of the bridge to hold the wooden retaining walls. They also tore out the walkway on the southside.

Wednesday they started tearing out the remaining part of the bridge and it will be two months before the bridge will be open.

The next phase of the work will be the excavating for the footing, which will be about 40x40 feet.

A couple of years ago residents of Fulton started paying a local automobile tax to pay for the construction of the new bridge and for the repair of over bridges over Harris Fork Creek.

The bridges were damaged over the years by the continuous overflow of the creek.

Usrey Trial Is Set For Oct. 24

Finis Usrey, South Fulton trucker, has been indicted on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the knife slaying of his estrange wife.

The indictment was one of numerous true bills handed down last week by the Obion county grand jury. The jury has been recessed, subject to recall by Attorney General Fleming Hodges.

Judge E. A. Morris of Obion called the criminal docket Monday when the Usrey case was set for trial on Oct. 24.

Dist. Atty. Gen. Fleming Hodges, who will be assisted by Charles Fields, attorney of South Fulton and Union City, announced he will seek the death penalty.

Usrey's 16-year-old daughter and a boy friend have told investigating officers they saw Usrey throw his wife to the floor of a closet in the couple's bedroom and then cut her throat with a small pocket knife, officers have said. Usrey then cut his own throat, police said, but his wound was not serious. He is being held for trial in the Obion county jail without bond.

A group of four Negroes were indicted for housebreaking and larceny at a grocery store near South Fulton. They were James Morris, Dorsey Johnson, Frazier Ramsey, Johnson and Morris also were indicted for receiving stolen property.

Swift's Dairy News

By James Browder

In our news story of the week, Swift and Co. wishes to bring to attention the progress made in dairying by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lawrence and son Darrel of Route 1, Wingo, Kentucky. For some time prior to February, 1948, the Lawrences sold cream and fed the skim milk to hogs. At this time they tried selling whole milk for manufacturing purposes, and their records will show very little difference in the monthly income of milk over cream. However, that market situation soon changed in favor of selling milk altogether. For nine years afterwards, they milked in a regular stock barn until Spring of 1957, when Mr. Lawrence built a two-cow V-type elevated milking barn and set it apart from most of the others by putting a partition between milk-

I've been intending to tell you about a party we went to in California on the second day of the National Convention. It was a party given by the famous party-giver Perle "Call Me Madam" Mesta and the invitation came to me before I left for the convention. The same engraved, plush invitation went out to every delegate and alternate to the National Convention and what's more, a personal note from Mrs. Mesta said that if your spouse was with you, he or she was invited too. Well, it was a real "exclusive" party at the famous Coconut Grove at the Ambassador Hotel with just about 20,000 guests invited. What with the other folks in California who were friends of delegates, their spouses and their kin folks who crashed the party, I'd say there were about 35,000 guests who attended. And that's not a word of lie, because I asked the public relations man at the Ambassador and that's the figure he gave me.

Well, nearly everybody at some time or another has read of Mrs. Perle Mesta and her parties and I decided that it would be nice if Mary Jo could go and enjoy it. Then, one of the other delegates at our hotel wasn't going, so she asked if I would like to ask Mary Nello to go, since she had met her and Mary Nello said she would. To have asked Mary Jo and Mary Nello to go, I found out later, was the greatest waste of time since the yo-yo, but nevertheless I went to great efforts to have them attend. In the first place I was staying at the Commodore Hotel in downtown Los Angeles and Mary Jo and Mary Nello were in Rolling Hills, 30 miles and an hour and a half away.

With a beautiful limousine and chauffeur from delegation headquarters we drove out to get them in style and then arrived just as much in style at the Coconut Grove. When we got there we were alighted in front of the marquee like as how we were the only ones invited and we saw a line as long into the street in front of the hotel as one of the lines during the war when somebody put up a sign for Kleenex. We thought it was a line of the curious to see one or the candidates. We soon found out it was the line to get into the Perle Mesta party, (four blocks long, the cops said) and that's when I looked around and saw Mary Nello gasping for breath. She was claustrophobia you know, and she dashed away from us and said she'd wait for us. Now that was a neat little thought. It would have taken radar to find her in that mob, but she got away before we could stop her.

In the meantime Mary Jo was hanging on to me for dear life, pulling at my belt, whimpering, and saying "Mother, don't leave me." You'd never think those folks were going to a party... you would have thought they were running out of circus tent in the face of a holocaust. I NEVER SAW such pushing and stomping in my life, and really what Mary Jo and I wanted to do was go back, find Mary Nello and get back to the hotel, but we were caught in the mob and couldn't go backward or forward... we were just being pushed into the crowd, toward the ball-room, where free food by the bucketful, free cock-

Needy Children To Be Taken Christmas Shopping

By Ouida Jewell

I know of nothing that makes one feel better than making others happy — especially needy young children at Christmas time.

One of the happiest Christmases I ever had was when I spent my money on a group of very poor children, buying them new clothes and toys.

This Christmas a larger group of local needy children will be made happy in a similar way by the Fulton Jaycees. Plans were discussed at a Board of Directors meeting Monday night for the Jaycees to branch out on their annual Christmas project, of delivering large baskets of food to the needy on Christmas Eve. This year they plan to do more. One of the things discussed was taking the needy children on a Christmas shopping spree.

Now, isn't that wonderful? I can see those nice young businessmen taking those little children shopping. Bet they will have more fun than the youngsters!

I think that the Jaycees plan is a wonderful idea, for there are lots of needy children — and adults — all around us. And, if I can be of any service, I hope the Jaycees will call on me.

Money for the Christmas project will again be raised by the Radio Marathon over WFUL.

At the meeting Monday night the directors voted to attend the Jaycee Regional meeting on Sept. 24 and 25 at Madisonville.

Fulton is taking a lead in state politics to divide the State of Kentucky into 12 different districts.

The local group is also starting its annual membership drive and voted into the club three new members Monday night. They are Billy Meacham, Joe Gambill, and Louis Robey.

The Jaycees will sponsor Hazel Walker's all-star, all-girls basketball team here in the near future, as soon as a date can be worked out with the schools.

The girls team will play the Jaycees and probably the all-star graduates of both of the local schools.

The Jaycees will have their Trick or Treat candy sale about two weeks before Halloween and their annual turkey shoot comes up the last of October.

At the meeting Monday night, the new building, the Jaycees hope to build was discussed. This matter will be definitely decided upon at the meeting Thursday night.

The Nine Wonders Of The World

Students of ancient history are apt to raise their eyebrows at the suggestion that the list of the seven wonders of the world be increased to nine. However, there are two items suitable for nomination to such magnificent accomplishments as the Pyramids of Egypt, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon, Phidias' statue of Zeus, the Temple of Ephesus, the Tomb of Mausolus, the Colossus of Rhodes and the Pharos of Alexandria. The additional two wonders should be the "American Economic System" and the "Lack of Understanding About How It Operates."

The American Economic System (or how we live in America) might well be called the eighth wonder of the world because it has allowed Americans a degree of personal freedom never before experienced by any organized society. We have freedom of travel, freedom of occupation, freedom to own property, freedom to create a business, freedom to choose the vocation of our children, freedom of religion, of speech, and of the press.

People living under socialism, communism or any other form of government-owned and controlled economy are not permitted this degree of personal indulgence.

Because of this system of personal freedom, the American people have achieved the greatest measure of economic well-being ever experienced by any nation. Our national income equals that of any other ten countries combined. With only seven percent of the world's population we have been producing approximately 50 percent of the world's manufactured goods. It has been stated that in the past forty years the American people have used more coal, iron, oil, gas and wood than all the rest of the world used in all the centuries before the beginning of this 40-year period. It is also reported that the American people have created more wealth during this past 40 years than all generations of mankind created preceding these 40 years. The dynamic growth of America might well be called the eighth wonder of the world.

The ninth wonder of the world might be described as an apparent willingness of the American people to give up this system because of a lack of appreciation and understanding of how the system works! For, in the light of the above accomplishments, brought to us by a system granting us the greatest degree of personal freedom—in recent years we have been moving swiftly toward the economic system of other countries laboring under socialism, where personal freedoms are sacrificed in favor of government control and ownership. The symptoms are all around us. We have reached a point of national insolvency. We have a national debt of over 290 billion dollars. The debt comes from a big federal government which is the nation's largest employer and provides benefits and services to millions of people. The services and benefits are paid for by high taxes on people (which kills their incentive to earn and save), and by corporations (which hinders their capacity to expand and produce). A lack of understanding about the American Economic System might well be called the ninth wonder of the world because there is an increasing dependency upon the very thing (Government) which leads to socialism, restricts our freedom, and hinders the incentive which made this country successful beyond our forefathers' wildest dreams in the first place.

Times Change And We Change

Some 70 years ago Cassius Clay of Bourbon County stood before the 1890 constitutional convention and said these words of wisdom:

"Times change and we change. What is necessary in one era is not necessary in another."

It is well to ponder those words as Kentuckians prepare to go to the polls on November 8 to vote for a constitutional convention for a limited revision of a 19th Century document.

Clay knew, whereof he spoke. Today many of the sections of that constitution need revision. We don't need

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

A Day Of Meaning

By Rev. John Maguire,
C. S. C., Magazine Editor

A day set aside in honor of labor should include a little thought on the meaning of labor in our lives... on WHY we have to work. Too often we think of work as only an evil that we can't escape, as part of the results of Adam's sin in our lives.

WE FORGET that God, when He first put our parents in the Garden of Eden—even before their sin—told them to tend it and cultivate it. We forget the words of Christ Himself,

—George Bernard Shaw

"My Father works even until now, and I work." If it were left to us, by our dreams we would turn this world into a paradise of perpetual pleasure, but such a world is not God's world.

A man is born into the world bearing the image and likeness of God in his soul.

When a man accepts the responsibility of raising children—and this means working to support them—he is sharpening in his soul the image God's finger imprinted there at the moment of his creation.

When a man takes the things of this world, works over them with his mind and his hands, making them better than he found them, he is sharing God's creative powers and becoming more like Him. God gave man work so that by it man could become more like God.

Most of us spend a good deal of our lives working. If we do not understand the purpose of work in our lives, if our work is nothing but drudgery, that is for us a tragedy.

St. Benedict used to tell his monks that work is prayer. The man who goes off to work in the morning gl/it, knowing that by his work he can support his family, knowing that his work enables him to share a little of God's creative powers, for such a one, his work, too, is a prayer.

A LABOR DAY passed without some such contemplation, some such attempt to understand why God asks us to work in this world, is a lost day.

The Fulton city schools opened Monday, September 9, for the 1940-41 school year. The high school, with an enrollment of 204, was the only school with an increased enrollment over that of last year. Carr Institute with 325, Terry Norman, 80, and Milton colored school with 120, were each a little bit under the opening day enrollment last year.

James W. Gordon, son of the late J. W. Gordon, is now at the Owl Drug Company, and will continue to operate the business as usual. Harvey Boaz, who is well known here, has returned to Fulton, and will be in charge of the prescription department.

The regular three weeks term of the Fulton County Circuit Court will open in Hickman on Monday, with the second week being held in Fulton, beginning Monday, Sept. 23, and the third week back in Hickman.

The regular dinner meeting of the Young Men's Business Club was held Tuesday night in the Lowe's Rainbow Room with good attendance of membership and several visitors present. Hendon Wright, president, presided over the meeting and reports were made by various committees.

I would like to highly recommend a movie that will be shown here on Oct. 5 for women only, concerning cancer. The film is being sponsored by the local Jaycees and all women are invited to see the picture free of charge. There will be two doctors present at the showing and women may ask questions written on slips of paper. The picture shows the early signs of cancer and it would be good for all local women to attend.

A preview of the short film was shown to a small number of women club leaders and newspaper women at the Woman's Club Monday morning at 10.

The cancer film will be shown at the Fulton Theatre.

Did you go by Saturday night and see Eugene Hootenpyle, president of the YMBC, sleeping on the band stand on Lake Steet? He had the place all lighted up and quite a number of visitors stopped by to keep him company. It was quite cold to be sleeping outside, but Gene seemed to be fairing OK when we drove by.

I understand that the Jaycees will meet in the future in the Chamber of Commerce office. Their next meeting is this Thursday night (tonight).

It is our understanding that the Jaycees want the Chamber of Commerce to go in with them and build a big Chamber of Commerce building, with offices and auditorium, out on the by-pass near Hillview Hospital. The subject has been discussed, but just what will develop, we will have to wait and see. Its a good idea!

It was nice to see Charlie Sevier of Jackson, a former Fultonian, over the weekend. He was visiting friends here and relatives in Union City. Mr. Sevier is an engineer with the Tennessee Highway Department, and said that he loved his work very much.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Johnson and children, Rebecca and Mark, who just recently returned to Owensboro after a stay in Harbel, Liberia, West Africa, spent Sunday and Sunday night in Fulton visiting her grandmother, Mrs. Emma Allison and aunt, Mrs. E. H. Knighton on Carr Street.

Mr. Johnson is employed by Firestone and has been station in Liberia for some time. They will now make their home in Owensboro.

Stanley Hopkins, friendly local funeral director, had a sleepless night last Friday. It seems that during the night he heard a strange noise and thought that someone was stealing gasoline from his automobile. He got his "rod" and slipped to the window. He looked out and saw nothing.

Stanley went back to bed and after a while the noise began again. He got up and slipped to the window again, ready to catch himself a thief. He again saw nothing.

Stanley returned to bed the third time and lay there trying to figure out what the noise was. After a considerable time he discovered that it was only the wind blowing the venetian blinds.

Mr. and Mrs. Lawson Roper and Mr. and Mrs. Warren Graham returned home last week from a two-weeks' vacation trip to the New England States and Canada. They report a wonderful time.

Dudley Morris has promised to tell me about his trip to the Holy Land and Cairo, Egypt, so that I might write a story for The News. I'm just dying to hear about his vacation. Dudley makes such interesting trips each summer. That man has made so many trips over the United States and abroad, he'll soon run out of new places to go. I sure do envy him.

I understand that my friends, June and John McClanshan are drawing up plans for construction of a new home, which will be located next door to June's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Mollie King on the Clinton Highway.

The men in the back shop really had a mess Thursday morning. Two pages of type jumped off the big press and scattered all over the floor. Before the press run could be completed all those little pieces of type had to be fitted back into their proper place.

The Fulton High Bulldogs will play Martin there Friday night, Sept. 16. Many local fans are expected to attend.

Mrs. Roper Fields, who has been teaching at South Fulton for quite a number of years, moved to Memphis recently and will teach in the Memphis schools. Her son, Tommy, will be a student at Memphis State.

Miss Barbara Caldwell, daughter of Mr. Harvey Caldwell of Fulton, left Sept. 14 for Knoxville, where she will enroll at the University of Tennessee. Barbara, who has been attending UTMB at Martin, will be a junior in Business Administration.

Larry Walker, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Walker of near Clinton, was presented in a live television show from station WREC-TV in Memphis recently.

The young baritone singer was accompanied by his sister, Miss Janice Walker, an organ student at the College Conservatory of Music in Cincinnati, O. He has studied voice for three years under Prof. Robert Baar at Murray State College.

Walker and another Clinton vocalist, Gary Harper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Harper, will appear in the talent division at the Mid-South Fair later this month, the Memphis schools. Her son, Walker was winner of the local Jaycee Contest recently.

A new business has been opened up in Fulton. A midget car track is now located next to the Wilson-Sensing junk yard near the Riceville overhead bridge. I believe the owners are Don Sensing and Cornell Wilson. Passed by the place Thursday night and there was a large crowd present. It seems that the place operates this way. You pay so much and your child gets to ride around the track in one of the little midget cars.

Local children will probably have a lot of fun out there.

Mary Nelle Wright

Mary Nelle Wright is back on the airwaves at WFUL after a full summer spent in travelling, weddings, and as much leisure as one fair lady could crowd into the beautiful weather of Kentucky.

Mary Nelle, who conducts the "My Fair Lady" program of WFUL each day Monday through Friday at nine thirty a. m. has accumulated a warehouse of interesting stories about her travels, (to New York, Annapolis, and then to the West Coast) to last a very long time and she's telling of these interesting travels each day on her "My Fair Lady" program.

As one lady called the station Monday and told Mary Nelle: "You make us feel as though we're on a magic carpet travelling everywhere right in the comfort of our living-room." Mary Nelle also entertains WFUL listeners each afternoon, Monday through Friday, on the "Forever Young" program and since Mary Nelle is a native of West Kentucky she does a fine job of telling "you remember when" stories to her listeners.

It is not that Mary Nelle is old enough to be eligible for membership in the Forever Young Club (65 and over) she just has a photographic memory about things she remembers and reads about the halycon days and she tells them well.

WFUL invites you to be Mary Nelle's guest on each of these programs and while you're waiting for her programs there's lots of good music and other good programs on WFUL to keep you happy indeed.

Make 1270 on your radio dial your daily listening post and share with us the pleasure of working together for the betterment of our community life.

Patrolman Says Hickman City Attorney Got His Job; Dismissed

Former night policeman at Hickman, Roland Harrison, told a Courier reporter that he felt his firing by Hickman police chief Marion Graves was a delayed reprisal for his arrest of Hickman city attorney Dee McNeill Nov. 29 for drunken driving. Harrison was told by Mayor C. King Davis at last week's council meeting that he was fired because he failed to make written report of arrests.

Harrison asked the council why this requirement was suddenly started after 15 months of no such practice. But he got no satisfactory answer.

The city council backed up the chief's firing of Harrison. But councilman Richard White suggested that future hiring and firing should be discussed first with the council. Dr. White suggested that the chief should make a written report to the council before any future actions are taken.

An Historical review of THE CIVIL WAR DAY-BY-DAY (Material is from publication of exactly one hundred years ago; original written from references in the Library of Congress, Washington. BY WILLIAM R. McHENRY

The summer of 1860 saw a riot in St. Louis. It took some time to understand just what had happened. The headlines of the Missouri Republican said: A NIGHT OF MOB AND RIOT. TWENTY THREE HOUSES OF PROSTITUTION BROKEN UP. CROWD OF SIX OR SEVEN THOUSAND PEOPLE. THE POLICE INEFFICIENT.

The riot, it seemed, started when some dissatisfied customers of a house of prostitution decided to "get revenge." There were in the city, many decent people who had been "subjected to daily experiences as revolting as they were bold . . . they took the law into their own hands and administered a terrible retribution."

It was mostly agreed that it was the honest people of the city, who acted to keep down the "mounting tide of indecency and profanity and prostitution and worse." The few men who started the affair got together in a saloon for a few drinks, then attacked the house they had chosen. The house was opened, the furniture dumped in the street and set afire, the women chased out . . . "they presented themselves in the street not entirely in ball-room dress, etc."

Bystanders took up the work and soon others, more "interested in doing mischief" than anything else, aided the wreckers. Like all such actions, where good people take the law into their own hands, said the papers, the affair soon got out of hand. Customers then in the houses (and who had perhaps not paid their bills) joined in the fracas. The police came, but could not handle the crowd. The officers "made a scatterment with their revolvers," but the mob was busy at other houses blocks away.

Among those famous . . . or infamous . . . places raided and striped were the establishments of Madame Hardy, Madame Hunter, Madame Ritter, and Madame Hoppes.

Citizens asked the firemen to use their water houses to stop the mob, but the firemen, it was said, "graciously offered to protect the property of influential citizens." Officer Kennedy, one of the policemen, died of a heart attack during the excitement. Officer Joseph Frieze was "injured when struck in the stomach by a brick thrown with much force."

60 of the mob were arrested. In court they were fined from $2 to $10 for disturbing the peace, most of them were held for other charges. Later, however, all the arrested ones were released, it being proven that the officers could "prove nothing against the men."

It was charged that the police showed favoritism in guarding only one establishment of prostitution from the mob. It was claimed that the police chief must have had some sort of financial connection.

So far, by the time the excitement died out of the papers, that buy an ELECTRIC clothes dryer

Yes, you save dollars instead of pennies with an electric clothes dryer . . . up to $50 over flame-type dryers on the purchase price alone. These savings pay for years of operation because—a few pennies a load is all you pay to dry clothes the clean, safe, electric way. You save dollars on upkeep too—electric dryers have fewer operating parts. That means years of safe, trouble-free operation.

All this plus high-speed drying, too—the clean and gentle electric way. You'll agree that for modern clothes drying the electric way is better.

just a sweet roll or a piece of bread, no butter, no mayonnaise, no nuttin', just bread.

I conceived the idea of going right to the kitchen, with Mary Jo pale as a ghost and getting gaunt and emaciated and I was doing just fine until that crawling little band of Mesta eating folks came back pushing and pulling Mrs. Mesta along the way. That took about 15 minutes to go through because she was trying to get to the kitchen too, probably to say thank you to the chef, when all of those silly people were trying to get through the same doorway.

I finally got a plate full of food for us, but honestly we ate so crowded that I put the plate on my lap and I had to feed Mary Jo for fear the fork would be taken out of her hand en route to her mouth. With a little vigor then we had the horrifying thought of getting out and finding Mary Nello. About that time a movie star came in and caused a small commotion and we knew she must have been somebody because we nearly got stomped by pads and pencils as they were passing us to get to her for autographs. When I finally got near enough to the star to introduce Mary Jo I didn't know who the star was and I had to ask her name. It was Jeanne Crane, behind three pounds of lip-stick, mascara and make-up. She's a mess!

Would you believe it when I tell you that Wendell Ford, the Governor's secretary finally made his way into the hall and was so tired when he got in, that he turned around and went back and he acted as a guard for us and we nearly got out in less than 30 minutes.

I might add here that I was getting mighty apprehensive about Mary Nello. Mary Jo and I had been gone about two hours and I felt sure that Mary Nello was either getting mighty mad or mighty hungry. Would you believe it if I told you that as Mary Jo, Wendell and I passed the bandstand we were startled to find Mary Nello sitting there having the most animated conversation you ever saw . . . talking to an Indian princess. You know Mary Nello! She jumped up and introduced us all around and pointed out that the princess was the last of her tribe and since the princess didn't have much place to go, what with no tepee or reservation, Mary Nello was selling her on Kentucky folklore. How she ever got into the ball-room and when, we never knew, but its possible Mary Nello met a Buffalo herd in the lobby, with Billy Cody and the princess in charge and they just rode in with no trouble.

It was that kind of a party where nobody would have noticed a frontier gun-fight or a Chicago gang-war. If they had they still would have been after those free drinks and food.

FULTON HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

By Karen Dublin

Well, how about those Bulldogs! After 2 games, they are still undefeated and their defense has held their opponents absolutely scoreless! Take last Friday night for example. They crashed through the Sharon line for 32 big points, while the Eagles were never able to get past the Big Blue defense. At the present time, the Bulldogs are rated 49th out of 134 football teams in the state. From all indications this should be one of the best football seasons in the history of Fulton High. KEEP IT UP BLUE, WE'RE ALL BEHIND YOU!!!

The newly organized Band Parents Club had an ice cream supper on the school grounds Tuesday night. The proceeds went to the much-improved FHS band.

The magazine sales drive will be over at assembly period Friday-morning. At that time, the Homecoming Queen will be announced. Right now, the Junior class is leading in the contest, but I've heard reports (from the Freshmen, Sophomores, and Seniors) that the situation may change before Friday. Some of the classes had candy sales Saturday to help their candidates, and there may be more sales during the week. Although class spirit may have been lacking a little last week, it seems to be picking up now, and by Friday, things should really get exciting.

The Bulldogs will go to Martin Friday night for their third game of the season. The game with the Panthers will begin at 8:00. Come on down and support the team. Well, so long till next week!!!

ing room and wash room. At this same time, he installed a cow-to-can milker and a 7-can milk cooler.

His barn cost $257.00 excluding his labor and is well constructed of concrete blocks and timber. The Lawrences today have a 9 cow herd, consisting of the three main breeds, namely Guernsey, Jersey and Holsteins. To further improve his herd, he has purchased a young Bull from the Guernsey herd of Burnette and Hixon. Due to the fact that most of his cows have dropped male calves recently, he has been short on herd replacement. To solve this, he has in the past few days purchased several fine Jersey heifer calves from neighbor Marion Hall. These calves come from a herd that has been bred up in production for over 30 years. In the near future, when these come into production, they should improve his herd considerably.

In discussing pastures with Mr. Lawrence, it was brought out that he uses Serica Lespedeza both for pasture and for hay. After several years in experimenting, he has found that rolling ground seeded with Serica furnishes fine pasture when other pastures are short or dried up. If the Serica outgrows the grazing of his cows, he clips it, bales it and another growth is on the way. Serica is cut similar to Alfalfa, say three times a year is quite similar in nutrition. He has found that he can pasture more cows per acre of Serica and produce more hay than any other legume he has found.

CRUTCHFIELD BOY—

Lt. Jerome J. Ewald who is assisted by NCOIC T-Sgt. Robert E. McNanley, is a small segment of a sprawling microwave communications network serving all of USAF. Other units of the 8th Radio Relay Squadron cover northern France and connect with the 12th in Germany and the 7th in southern France and Spain. The system is also connected with the Atlantic Cable and two transoceanic Air Force radio stations so that a message from Phalsbourg could be carried around the world.

Radio Relay today is a fantastic conglomeration of all the old forms of communication put together, with the possible exception of Indian smoke signals.

Combining the principles of heliography, wireless, telephone, teletype, radio microwave and Pony Express relay stations; it speeds voice and teletype messages through airspace on invisible beams of RF energy. These super high frequency microwaves, in the 7,000 to 8,000 megacycle range, travel in a direct line necessitating the placing of relay stations at high elevations.

Atop a peak in the Vosges Mountains about five miles from the town of the same name, is the Dabo "main line" Radio Relay Station which is under Flight Seven and supported logistically by Phalsbourg Air Base. Here, as in all radio relay stations, 24 hours a day, seven days a week and 365 days a year, a crew of eight men, including a cook, under Site Chief S-Sgt. George D. Bonnet, keep the electronic microwave beams shooting to the adjoining relay stations one the main line—about 80 miles to the east of Teufelskopf, Germany, and approximately 80 miles to the west at Gernimy, France. They also keep a beam shooting to Phalsbourg where a terminal station under equipment capable of handling 23 Site Chief S-Sgt. Thomas E. Laland voice and 12 teletype channels between it and the Dabo main line Officers Club. It has microwave station.

Rufus Wilson Third Victim Of Traffic Accident Near Lynnville

A traffic accident Sept. 2 near Lynnville, in which Mr. and Mrs. Burnie Lee Dick were killed instantly, claimed its third victim Sept. 4 when Rufus Wilson, 63-year-old Sedalia livestock dealer, died at Fuller-Morgan Hospital at Mayfield at 12:45 p. m.

Mr. Wilson, driver of one of the automobiles involved in the accident, suffered a severe chest injury and collapsed lung, and had been in critical condition since the accident.

Wilson's wife, Mrs. Lela Wilson, 52, remains in serious condition at the hospital with a broken leg and multiple cuts and bruises. A fifth passenger in the car, J. A. Childress, 9, of Hazel Park, Mich., suffered a broken leg, and his condition is listed as good.

The driver of the other auto,

James R. Wiggins, 17, of Lynnville, suffered lacerations of the tongue and scalp. His companion, Miss Nancy West, 16, of Mayfield, route 1, suffered several broken ribs and an ankle injury.

The accident occurred at intersection of Kentucky highways 391 and 83.

State Trooper Ezra Meador said the Wiggins youth apparently ran a stop sign. Marks on the pavement indicated Wiggins' car skidded about 60 feet, Meador said.

The Wilsons and Dicks and the Childress youngster were en route to Sedalia after eating dinner at the home of Loyce Dick in Lynnville. Their car was traveling north on Ky 391. Wiggins and Miss West had been to a drive-in movie and were en route home, traveling east on Ky 83.

Highway Work Is Under Way

Surveys have been completed, with the exception of a 27-mile section between Dyersburg and Troy, toward making four lane the 103-mile section of U. S. Highway 51 running from Memphis to Union City, Tenn.

"And that doesn't mean that the part of Highway 51 between Dyersburg and Troy isn't going to be made four lane," said J. W. Bennett, West Tennessee Division engineer for the State Department.

"We just have not completed a survey for that section. The same thing applies to the 12-mile section of Highway 51 which extends from Union City to Fulton, Ky."

Narrow, heavily traveled Highway 51 has been the subject of much controversy because of the numerous serious accidents which have occurred on it.

Mr. Bennett, whose office is located at Jackson, said the Highway Department has already made four lane these sections of Highway 51 and opened them to traffic.

From Memphis' north city limits to Woodstock, about three and a half miles.

A seven-mile bypass at Dyersburg which skirts the city in a westward direction and comes back to Highway 51 just north of Dyersburg.

The division engineer said four lane construction is under way or under contract on these portions of Highway 51.

From Woodstock almost through Millington, 6.2 miles. From the junction of State Route 88 (a mile west of Halls) to the Dyersburg bypass, a distance of 8.2 miles.

From Troy to Union City, 8.8 miles.

"We have no other construction going on on Highway 51, and no construction — other than four lane work — has been planned," Mr. Bennett said.

He declined to estimate when construction will be begun on the rest of Highway 51 on which four lane surveying has been completed.

WORK ON BRIDGE

Work was begun at noon on Monday on the construction of a new bridge across Harris Fork Creek on Commercial Avenue near the News office.

Ask any Dane about Biksemad. It's a savory Danish hash combining diced boiling beef, boiled potatoes, sliced onions with butter and other seasonings. Each ingredient is cooked separately, sauteed in butter—then stirred together and served piping hot.

What beverage to serve with it? Many connoisseurs of good food recommend—a glass of refreshing, sparkling beer. Try it yourself—see how much enjoyment a glass of beer adds to your favorite foods—any time of year.
